Introduction

Volunteers are the lifeblood of the Harbour Project. They are a core and vital part of our Drop-In Centre, providing friendship and support to our visitors. They deliver English language and other classes, help us with fundraising events and activities, and contribute to the charity in many other ways.

We also recognise the value of this exchange to our volunteers, who tell us that they feel part of the Harbour family, and often form friendships with the visitors, staff and other volunteers that they meet whilst volunteering. Whilst we want to avoid over-regulating volunteer roles so that these organic relationships can develop, we also recognise our responsibility to manage and oversee volunteers and to provide a safe environment in which to work.

We expect our volunteers to behave in accordance with our values, and to seek help from our staff when they need it. We are committed to providing effective induction, training and support to our volunteers.

It is important to acknowledge the differences between the roles of volunteers and staff members at the Harbour Project. Volunteers are not engaged under a contract of employment. They give their time freely, and the Harbour Project welcomes and appreciates this contribution, within the parameters of its values, the volunteer role description and this policy.

Recruitment

Volunteers may be recruited through internal or external actions. All prospective volunteers are asked to apply through the on-line form accessible from the Project website. This form allows the application to feed directly into a database and thus ensures that all applications are consistently managed and a waiting list is maintained. The Project Manager is responsible for all volunteer recruitment.

When a need for a volunteer is identified, the first step will be to review the waiting list for likely applicants. When a specific role is needed that is not met by the existing waiting list, the role may be advertised on (any or all of) the Harbour Project's website, facebook, through its regular newsletter, through Swindon VAS weekly newsletter, Do-It.Org or on the Charity Job website.

For specific roles, the role description and advert will cover the following headings:

- Title of role
- Hours required
- Commitment expected
- Location
- Purpose
- Description of the role
- Description of likely candidates
- Desirable skills / qualifications
- Information about the Harbour Project, including a copy of this Policy
- How to apply

An example of a role description / job advert is at Appendix I. A generic role description is published on the website under 'Get Involved'.

As part of the on-line application process, prospective volunteers are required to confirm their acceptance of The Harbour Project Volunteer Agreement and Volunteering Values (appendix 2).

Candidates are also asked to provide two references, at least one of which should be professional. If the skills/ experience of the applicant look appropriate to The Harbour, The Business Manager will check the references before asking the candidate to come in and meet the Project Manager for an informal interview. This conversation will include an overview of the Project, discussion around different volunteer roles, and an explanation of the type of work that people are likely to be involved in. Candidates will then be asked to complete a DBS check if appropriate.

Subject to satisfactory references and DBS checks, candidates will be either asked to join as a volunteer, and a start date agreed. Alternatively, people may be added to the waiting list if there is no capacity for their skills and interests at that point in time. In which case references and DBS checks will be initiated at the point at which a suitable opportunity is identified.

Where there are concerns raised through the referencing process or the DBS check, the Project Manager will contact the individual and, depending upon the outcome of this, notify the individual that their application to volunteer is not being taken forward.

DBS Checks

All volunteers are required to complete an enhanced DBS check before commencement of volunteering at The Harbour Project. This is completed on-line and the link to the application will be sent to the prospective volunteer by the Business Manager, once the application form has been received. The DBS check will be refreshed every 3 years (if the person is still volunteering with at The Harbour Project).

Equal Opportunity and Diversity

The Harbour Project values and embraces equal opportunities and diversity. The charity is committed to ensuring fairness and recognises the importance of diversity and inclusion within its recruitment and management of volunteers.

The Harbour Project commits to making reasonable adjustments to ensure that all volunteers are recruited fairly and can participate fully.

Bullying or harassment of volunteers will not be tolerated.

Induction and training

Upon appointment, a start date will be agreed. On their first day, The Drop-In Manager, Deputy or Coordinator will provide an induction and a copy of the Volunteer Information Pack.

The induction will include (some of which may have been covered in the initial meeting between the Project Manager and new volunteer):

- Aims of organisation
- Why volunteers are involved
- Tour of the building
- Meeting staff and volunteers
- Role description, including training
- Health and Safety awareness
- Safeguarding
- Understanding Equal Opportunities
- Fire Procedures
- First Aid/Accident Book
- Importance of confidentiality
- Record keeping (paper & electronic) and access rights
- Any other appropriate policies and their location
- How to complain

In the case of Drop-in volunteers, the Drop-in Coordinator will also brief the volunteer on processes (paper-based and electronic), forms and sources of information and also provide other general information and advice. The volunteer will then shadow an existing volunteer for the first two to three sessions until they are confident in the role.

Training

Volunteers are offered regular training on the asylum and refugee processes. Drop-in Centre Volunteers are encouraged to liaise closely with the Drop-in staff, and to ask questions or seek advice whenever needed.

Fundraising Training

All fundraising volunteers must undergo training on the standards set by the Fundraising Regulator. Fundraising volunteers will not be allowed to begin fundraising until they have attended the training, as this is a legal requirement for the charity.

Management & support of volunteers

The Harbour Project is committed to supporting volunteers effectively and providing them with any help and guidance they need to feel confident and competent during their time with us.

Supporting Volunteers in the Drop-in centre

Before the Drop-in opens each day, volunteers will receive a quick briefing from the Drop-in Co-ordinator. After the Drop-in closes, volunteers will be able to access advice and support from a member of the Drop-in staff team if required.

The Harbour Project understands that a volunteer's personal situation may change, or the volunteer may no longer feel able to manage the challenges of supporting the Harbour Project's visitors. Volunteers are encouraged to talk to any member of staff about any concerns or barriers that may limit their ability to continue to volunteer with us.

When volunteers leave the Harbour Project, they will be offered an exit interview with the Project Manager to talk through their reasons for leaving. We ask that volunteers inform a member of staff if they are no longer able to continue to volunteer with us, so that plans can be put in place to manage any backfill, if required.

Removal procedures

In exceptional circumstances, volunteers may be removed from their role at the Harbour Project. Volunteers are not covered by the staff grievance and disciplinary procedures, due to their different status as volunteers. In such cases, the following procedures will be followed.

1. Initial concerns about a volunteer are likely to be identified by a member of the Drop-In Staff team, and should be addressed immediately and in accordance with usual practices.
2. Minor concerns about any volunteer should be reported to the Project Manager by any staff member, Trustee, volunteer, visitor, or other person. The Project Manager will initially discuss these concerns with the Drop-In Manager to see if he/she is able to manage and resolve the problem directly with the volunteer.
3. If the issue cannot be resolved in this way, the Project Manager and the Drop-In Manager will meet with the volunteer to discuss the situation and seek to resolve it. This may involve, for example, reminding the volunteer about the Harbour Project's procedures and values, or supporting the volunteer in developing their skills in a particular area. If, for example, the volunteer has not been attending agreed Drop-in centre times, the discussion may focus on how the volunteer could contribute to the Harbour Project in ways other than during specific time periods.
4. If the situation cannot be resolved at this meeting, the Project Manager will inform the volunteer that they will no longer be able to act as a volunteer for the charity.
5. In the case of a major concern, such as abusive or threatening behaviour to a staff member, visitor or other volunteer, suspected theft, significant breach of health and safety or safeguarding policies, or other similar behaviour, the volunteer will be asked to leave the premises immediately, by any staff member present, but ideally by the Project Manager if present. The CEO will be informed immediately, and they will carry out an investigation to determine what happened. The CEO will make a decision as to whether the volunteer should be removed from their position, and will ask the volunteer to meet with them to explain the reasons behind this. Where possible, the Chair of Trustees (or another Trustee) will also attend this meeting.
6. Where the behaviour constitutes a significant incident for the charity, the Director will report the matter to the Charity Commission and the police.

Expenses

Volunteers are entitled to out of pocket expenses only. These expenses must be agreed in advance with the Harbour Project but may include, for example, public transport costs to reach the Harbour Project, and expenses for refreshments for volunteering activities that last for 6 hours or more.

Volunteers should ask the Business Manager for an expense claim form, and must provide all appropriate receipts in order to seek reimbursement.

Attendance

For volunteers working in the Drop-in Centre, people are asked to add their name to a rota, publicised in the Drop-in kitchen. In the event that someone is not able to attend, we also ask that they inform a member of staff as soon as practicable. To allow people to stay connected to The Harbour and the fast moving environment of asylum and refugee issues, we expect volunteers to attend at least 2 Drop-in sessions per month.

Volunteers who lead on, or take part in other groups or activities are also asked to make a minimum commitment of 2 sessions per month and to advise the Project Manager if they are not able to attend.

Volunteer teachers are coordinated by the Lead English Coordinator, who also runs a rota of classes, along with an outline of topics to be covered.

Health and Safety

All volunteers will be expected to follow the organisation's health and safety policies.

Confidentiality and Safeguarding

All volunteers are expected to abide by the Harbour Project's data protection policies and procedures and its safeguarding policies.

Volunteers are reminded that they are not permitted to use or disclose any confidential information they have access to during the period of volunteering either during that period or afterwards.

Complaints

Where a volunteer wishes to make a complaint about any aspect of their experience, this should be managed in accordance with the Complaints Policy.

Intellectual Property

Ordinarily, the intellectual property of anything created by a volunteer remains with the volunteer. Volunteering at The Harbour explicitly includes a transfer of these rights to the Harbour Project, so that any work such as photographs, posters, or other written materials, are vested in the Harbour Project.

Data Protection

Volunteers are reminded to abide by the provisions of the Harbour Project's Data Protection policy, and to keep confidential any personal information they discover from visitors.

Volunteers' own personal information will also be managed in accordance with the Data Protection policy, and in accordance with their consent.

Policy Review

This policy will be reviewed annually by trustees, with input from staff and volunteers.

This policy was adopted in August 2019.

In the event that someone is not able to attend, we also ask that they inform a member of staff as soon as practicable.

ABOUT THE HARBOUR PROJECT

We offer a safe place for refugees and asylum seekers new to Swindon and (often) the UK. Swindon is a 'dispersal town' for asylum seekers, meaning that the Home Office has assigned properties here in Swindon specifically for people claiming asylum.

Our visitors come from all over the world, from war-torn countries, or places of ongoing internal conflict, such as Eritrea, Iran and Pakistan. They are usually far from friends and family with very little understanding of life in the UK. The Harbour seeks to fill that need by giving friendly, informal and, above all, practical support.

Since gaining charitable status in 2003, our numbers have increased significantly year on year. In the past 12 months, we have welcomed nearly 450 men, women and children through our doors from more than 40 different countries.

Whilst our work chiefly revolves around the weekday drop-in, offering free advice, guidance and English classes Monday to Friday from 11am to 2pm, we are open to increasing our activities in line with what our visitors ask for, and as capacity permits. The more that volunteers come aboard and share their skills and talents, the more we can help meet the need.

One of the things that makes the Harbour so special is that despite the disparate – and often desperate – situations from which people have come, there is a willingness to put past difficulties aside and a desire to make a fresh start in a new country

THE HARBOUR PROJECT

Providing a safe space for refugees and asylum seekers in Swindon
CIO number 1171368

Volunteer Agreement

In applying to become a volunteer at The Harbour Project, we ask you to agree to abide by our volunteering principles and values set, both in spirit and letter.

This is not a legally-binding contract, but is intended to underline the mutual commitment between The Harbour Project and each volunteer.

We (The Harbour Project) agree:

- To provide support, information and, as practicable, training, to enable you to perform an effective and fulfilling role within The Harbour Project.
- To reimburse you for travel if need be; and other expenses (if agreed in advance) for any activities undertaken in The Harbour Project's name.
- To treat you as a member of The Harbour Project team, jointly responsible for achieving its aims.
- To keep you up to date about what's going on at the Harbour.
- To provide a daily brief at the start of each session as well as an opportunity to share any issues, concerns or feedback with a member of staff at the end of each session.
- To provide a safe place to work.
- To provide a reference for you if requested.

You agree:

- To adhere to The Harbour Project's values – especially concerning confidentiality (please see overleaf).
- To perform tasks agreed with staff/ other volunteers to the best of your ability.

- To meet time and attendance commitments, except in exceptional circumstances, or provide adequate notice so that alternative arrangements can be made.
- To attend training whenever reasonably practicable and do your best to keep up to date with Harbour processes and policies, especially those that keep you, our staff and visitors safe.
- To recognise that you represent the organisation when advocating for a Harbour visitor with the prior agreement of staff, but at other times, do so in a personal capacity.
- To give notice in writing when no longer able to continue volunteering.

Our Volunteering Values

We are committed to:

● Preserving a 'safe space' for refugees and asylum seekers

Respecting our visitors' vulnerability means not asking too many questions and letting visitors decide when they are ready to talk about the situation from which they have come or any other personal matters.

● Impartiality

Staff and volunteers should be working towards the inclusion of all who may benefit from The Harbour Project, irrespective of ethnic origin, language, culture, gender, religion or belief, age, gender reassignment, sexual orientation, marriage or civil partnership, pregnancy or maternity, race, physical or mental health. In short, be nice to everyone.

● User involvement

We cannot assume we know what our visitors need or want; we must ask and listen. We encourage our visitors to volunteer with us and seek their feedback in all we do.

● Encouraging independence

Although providing new arrivals with essential help, ultimately we need to encourage visitors to become independent of us. Our visitors are making decisions about their own lives – we're here to help them to understand their choices. Volunteers should consider how this works in practice, case by case.

● Confidentiality

Information is shared on a 'need to know' basis. We seek visitors' signed consent when liaising with other agencies. Visitors also decide whether they want to be photographed at the Harbour or while participating in any trips or events. We ask that you do not take photographs without the consent of the visitor(s).

● Boundaries and influence

Inclusion and integration develop through friendships – and part of what we do at the Harbour is to befriend our visitors. Volunteers need to establish their own boundaries in the extent to which they share personal details and contact information. We also ask our volunteers to recognise that the balance of influence and dependency between individuals in different relationships (especially when this is a volunteer and a visitor) is not always equal.

● Teamwork

Working as a team needs good communication. This involves checking the notice board and emails regularly, updating records and Airtable, and attending volunteers' training when possible. It also means giving your feedback and letting the staff hear your ideas about how we can collectively improve life at The Harbour.
